Is There Something Rather

The question, "Why is there something, rather than nothing?", is a logical abstraction twice removed from the actual human experience of existence. As a logical abstraction, "some thing" cannot be the starting point of a philosophical argument which reaches, in conclusion, the existence of any entity, let alone that Being whose nature is to exist.

Answering the biggest question of all: why is there ...

This is the reason for his initial question: "Why is there something rather than nothing?" Unlike God, who has always existed in and of Himself, there is no reason to assume that the universe had to exist. and therefore its existence is contingent on being caused to exist. As such, it requires an explanation.

Nothing turns it on its head—performing miracles of creation through unknown physics or mechanisms that are extremely unlikely to occur. The simplest explanation for the existence of all the something we see is that an extremely intelligent being, God, willed it to happen for His own purposes, and left evidence of that purpose in the nature of His ...
